Homework Policy Statement for St. Hugh's School

At St. Hugh's School, we recognise the exceptional resilience our students demonstrate daily in managing and dealing with their educational, personal, and social challenges. In line with this understanding, we do not stipulate any required amount of homework or impose consequences for its non-completion if any is set. Homework is considered an optional supplement to in-school learning and should not impede students' well-being or limit their opportunities beyond the school day.

We also do not mandate staff to assign homework. Staff at St. Hugh's will use their professional judgment when deciding if homework is suitable for individual students, considering each student's unique needs, capacity, and circumstances. This approach allows for flexibility and personalisation, creating an educational environment that respects and supports each student's overall development.

Our goal is to promote a balanced, supportive learning experience that values both academic progress and the well-being of our students.
